"FRANK MADDOCKS" BY ONE WHO KNEW HIM.

The Mountain Echo, published at Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz county, has the following sketch of Francis Maddocks who recently suicided at La Honda:

"'Frank" Maddocks, as he was always called by friends and acquaintances, came to the vicinity of Searsville and La Honda, over 40 years ago and married there. A little later he lived with his family for a time in the mountains back of Saratoga. Then he returned to Searsville and resided on the mountain top between that place and La Honda until in the eighties he moved with his family to Boulder Creek. For many years, with his family, his home was on West Park avenue, at the place now owned by J. E. Bonebrake, on the west side of the street, this house having been built and owned by deceased for a time.

"The deceased resided in this locality about 20 years, during which time his wife died and the family of four children drifted out in the world. One son, Roy, has been in Alaska for many years. Another, Ellsworth, resides in San Francisco. A third son, Austin, died in Amador county of typhoid fever. The youngest of the family, Ethel, is teaching school in San Louis Obispo county, and is a member of the board of education of that county.

"While living here Frank Maddocks never claimed to have 'marched with Sherman to the sea." He was in the United States' service for about one year during the Rebellion but it was in the navy and not the army. For a time he saw service on the old, historic monitor, the "Monadnock." The story of "marching to the sea" was probably the creation of some resourceful and imaginative reporter.

"The life of Frank Maddocks was ruined by an inordinate love for strong drink. It was his besetting passion through life, and took precedence of all other earthly ties or duties. His wife was worried and harried to to a premature grave by it; his home and family wrecked and his children scattered early in life to the four winds.

"Finally, we see him in the above pen picture, estranged from his own children and other blood relatives, living by himself in a lonely cabin and doubtless sinking lower and lower in the scale of humanity until in a moment of frenzy or deperation, he takes his own life in the most dreadful manner possible. The end, while shocking in the extreme, was in keeping with the life, and, there is no need to point a moral to the story. It is so obvious that it speaks loudly for itself."

"NAUTICAL KNOT" WELL RENDERED BY LOCAL TALENT

Friday evening the Choral Club gave "The Nautical Knot" at the Alhambra. The parts were well taken and carried through successfully. Nearly all the special singing was excellent but especial mention should be made of Mrs. Cummings. Her solo wark was very good and delighted the audience. Her duet with Mr. Landscheit was also very pleasing.

Miss Beeger, who carried the leading role, made a splendid appearance and acted her part with her accustomed ease.

The action was so realistic that in one scene the wind raged so tempestously that one store and the light house were blown over.

The receipts were not sufficient to cover all expences and a meeting was held Monday night to arrange to take care of the deficit.

Spring Valley Still Buying.

The Spring Valley Water Company has purchased 660 acres of the Belmont Canyon, comprising practically the last of the water sheds in this county available for practicable use. They are also said to have an option on adjoining properties, including Reid's school and Gardner's sanitarium. It is said that the additional purchase will run the total assessment valuation of the company's property in this property up to $4,000,000.—San Mateo Times.

Redwood City Boy Honored

Congressman Hayes has appointed Conrad K. Bontz, the son of Conrad Bontz of thiscity, to a cadetship in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Young Bontz received the highest average in the examination of a number of candidates held in San Jose, December 23d. His average for the six subjects—U. S. history, English geography, algebra, geometry and arithmetic—was 92.9 per cent.

Reids Not Coming West.

The report published last week of the arrival of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid was an error. The Reids will not visit the coast this winter but will return in a few days to London. A dispatch from New York states that they are hosts at their New York home of Governor General and Duke of Connought, the Duchess and the Princess Patricia.

Students Organize and Elect

REMINISENCES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

Gleanings From the Records Left By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

What was undoubtedly the most dastardly crime ever blackening the history of this generally peaceful city, and one which at the time stirred public indignation to its very depths occurred on the afternoon of November 29th, 1887, when Ralph S. Smith, then editor and manager of this paper, was murdered in cold blood in the immediate business center of the city, and this because he felt called to espouse the ause of a woman whom he believed to have been cowardly wronged in a business transaction. The perpetrator of this cowardly crime was a man who had been a resident of the city but little more than one year, known as Dr. Powell, a man who during the short time of his residnece here had not so conducted himself as to secure enviable reputation.

Seemingly there had been some slight differences of a personal nature between Editor Smith and this Dr. Powell for some time past, ending in a rather caustic criticism of the methods of Dr. Powell in the issue of the paper of a week previous to the date of the murder. In this article Dr. Powell was accused of dishonest business methods, the statement being made that Powell, as the agent of Dr. Stambaugh had collected various sums from Mrs. Willis, a tenant in one of Dr. Stambaugh's houses, and because of his failure to pay a city water bill for the premises and which Mrs. Willis had paid to him as included in the rent of the house, the town authorities had shut off her supply of water and that to again secure water for her home she had been compelled to pay the bill a second time. This publicity given his methods stirred the rancor of Dr. Powell, who from the time he observed the article seemed to have made preparation for the dastardly deed which he committed on the following Tuesday afternoon. For a few days he went about the streets uttering dire threats and carrying a weapon. In fact so open were these threats that friends of Mr. Smith advised him to take precautions to protect himself and to arm against the man it was feared wouldattempt his life at the first opportunity. To the importunities of his friends the editor paid no attention, seemingly believing that though he was far the smaller man of the two he would be able to protect himself, or failing to realize the desperate character of the individual against whom he had been contending.

The first meeting of the two men after the publication of the article which was the cause of the murder occurred on Sunday afternoon, the day after its publication, when the two men had a rather heated altrication on the streets. At this time Dr. Powell roundly abused Smith, who while insisting that his course had been in the right and that he had not misstated facts, told Powell that the columns of the paper were open to himself or Dr. Stambaugh at any time and that he would be ready to publish facts the time seemed to end the matter as they were shown him. This at and that evening Dr. Powell remrked in tahe hearing of friends of both men that he was going to let the matter drop as it was.

The next meeting of the two men was on Tuesday, shortly after noon,a just before the crime was committed which resulted in the death of a man whose whole life had been spent in San Mateo county and who had devoted his best efforts to the upbuilding of this community. Powell had come down Main street and entered the Pioneer drug store in the Wahl building. Just after Powell had entered the store Mr. Smith passed along the street and stopped in front of the store to talk to Charles Wentworth, a friend. After a few moments Dr. Powell came out to the door and stood watching his victim for a short time, when the two men approached, Mr. Smith saying: "Dr. Powell, I hear you have said you intend shooting me on sight." Powell replied to this with an oath, when the two men clinched. In the scuffle the men worked themselves backward into the drug store, where Powell drew from his pocket a revolver and fired four shots, one of which entered the back of Mr. Smith, causing a necessarily fatal wound. As this shot entered the body of Smith he staggered against the counter in the store and bystanders managed to secure Powell and prevent further shooting. The wounded man was carried to the rear of the drug store and Drs. Ross and Mason were called. A cursory examination satisfied the physicians that the wounded man was beyond mortal aid and they directed that he be conveyed to his home. In an effort to save the life of the doomed man Dr. McLean of San Francisco was called to consult with the local physicians, but he could no nothing but confirm the verdict already rendered by them, as by the time he arrived paralysis of the lower limbs had set in. Suffering great pain the wounded man lingered until Wednesday morning, expiring shortly after 7 o'clock.

[The remaining details of this unfortunate tragedy will be told next week.]

MOORES DENIED DIVORCE; NO ALLOWANCE FOR WIFE

A climax in the domestic affairs of Mrs. Lillian L. Moore, the society woman of San Mateo, who made an unsuccessful attempt to divorce her husband, John J. Moore, Pacific Union clubman and capitalist of San Francisco, came Tuesday when Judge Buck handed down his decree denying a divorce to both of the contestants and making no provision for a monthly allowance for the support of Mrs. Moore.

The temporary alimony of $300 a month which Mrs. Moore has been receiving from her husband ceased as soon as the decree was entered. If friends of the estranged couple fail in their efforts to effect a reconciliation and if Moore does not see fit to offer financial assistance to his wife Mrs. Moore will in all probability bring another suit in which she will ask for separate maintenance.

In the findings of facts, from which he concluded that neither Moore nor Mrs. Moore deserved a divorce, Judge Buck showed that the defendant was not guilty of either extreme cruelty or infidelity and that the plaintiff was not guilty of extreme cruelty.

REALTY COMPANY WILL SELL IRRIGATED LAND.

The Redwood City Realty Company has been appointed exclusive general agents for San Mateo county for the Patterson Irrigated farms in Stanislaus county where buyers can have their choice of several thousand acres in tracts of such size as desired at from $175 to $300 per acre, one-fifth cash and balance in eleven annual payments. It is one of the best propositions in the San Joaquin Valley and those who are looking for land of this character should investigate the proposition. Illustrated booklets which cover the situation thoroughly will be supplied by the Realty Company on application.

Local News Paragraphs.

Last Saturday George Rolph, a brother of the mayor of San Francisco, W. J. Hotchkiss, and Mr. Brown, prominent businessmen of San Francisco, were here and accompanied by Mr. Merrill, made an inspection of the water front. It is expected that work will shortly be commenced in the development of that important section of the city, and by spring much progress will be made.

J. Fred Barg and wife of San Francisco were given a surprise Sunday, the fifth anniversary of their marriage, on which occasion they were the recepients of a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barg in this city. The event was planned by the parents of the young couple and was keenly enjoyed by them and the guests.

Alexander Gordon, Redwood's esteemed old resident, has been missed from the streets lately, being confined to his home on Phelps street with illness. While at times a great sufferer from asthma Mr. Gordon is cheerful at all times and hopes to be out again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barg are in receipt of the pleasant tidings that by the recent birth of a girl to their daughter, Mrs. G. M. Barthold at Portland, they have had additional honors conferred upon them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott, Miss Florence Elliott and the two little sons of the family went to Truckee, last week to revel in the snow for a few days.

Forerunners of prosperity

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

The Coast Side Comet has recently compiled an estimate of the acreage planted to artichokes in the coast side section which indicates that the growing of this suculent vegetable is rapidly becoming an important industry of San Mateo county. From the figures given it appears that the present area devoted to artichoke culture comprises no less than 1625 acres, devided as follows: The valleys of San Predo, Salada and Brighton, 500 acres; Montara, 50; Princeton, 350; Granada, 25; north of Half Moon Bay, 200; San Mateo canyon, 150; south of Half Moon Bay, 110; Purissima, 100; Lobitos, 100; San Gregorio, 100:

In addition to this it is estimated that at least an additional 500 acres of land is being prepared for planting this season, making a total of practically 2200 acres devoted to this single industry. From this territory it is expected that an output of over 400 car loads will be harvested for the season, a great portion of the product being shipped to Eastern cities.

BETTER CLEAN HOUSE FIRST

If the expressions of a newspaper can be taken as a reflex of the opinions of the people of a locality—and it is admitted that they generally are—the people of the northern end of the county are not enthused with the idea of being made a tail to the San Francisco kite than are those of the more remote sections. Located practically on the border line, it might supposed that Daly City would be the last to register a kick, yet from the subjoined extract from the editorial utterances of the Daly City Record it is evident the annexation idea is far from as popular in that section as the San Francisco boomers might like to see:

Whether we shall be annexed to San Francisco and take our place in the long list of neglected districts of that city, or whether we shall retain the strong position we now hold, of being able to do things for our selves without waiting for the slow action of disinterested supervisors, seems to be a question that will soon be presented to the voters of this city. A meeting of a committe of 100 San Franciscans who are working to bring about annexation was held Wednesday night in the city to confer with a representative body from San Mateo county on the question. We were not able to learn the result of their deliberations, nor do we know who the representative citizens of this county were. But to the common citizens, who are in danger of becoming the playthings of scheming politicians, certain simple questions are presented.

Within the present limits of San Francisco at this time there is sufficient undeveloped and unoccupied territory to accommodate one and one half millions of people. Part of this territory is as wild and rough as any to be found on the peninsula and has been permitted to remain so mainly owing to the inadequate transporiation facilities and wretched condition of the streets within the city limits. Would it not seem the better policy for San Francisco to first develop her present territory before reaching out for more? Before asking us to join her she might at least improve a half dozen principal streets joining Daly City and the county line if for no other reason than to show good faith. With hundreds of acres of unoccupied land and miles of unimproved streets alreaby on her hands one cannot help wondering what argument the politicians will advance in their efforts to dupe us into tying our own hands to be the more conveniently robbed. The rate of taxation in San Francisco is practically double the present rate in Daly City, so they have little to offer on that head.

Improvements at Ravenswood.

MENLO PARK, January 2 i—Rapid work on the buildings of the big plant of the Reed Zinc Company at Ravenswood is being recorded. Under the direction of Contractor Blair a force of thirty carpenters and laborers have been busy in spite of the unsettled weather the past two weeks erecting the frame work of the buildings and within twenty days they will be ready for the assembling of machinery and other equipment. The surveys for the spur track to the Southern Pacific at the west portal of the Dumbarton bridge are completed and have been approved by General Manager E. E. Calvin, and this will see the beginning of grading. The switch will be about 6,600 feet long and from present plans it is expected that the first shipment of ore for the plant will arrive in about thirty-five days. There is much work to be done in the interior of the corrugated iron buildings now rising, in fact the greatest proportion of the outlay of $35,000 for each unit of the reduction enterprise is involved in the interior equipment and the installation of a series of settling tanks which will extend 200 feet along the side of the building.

The recent dastardly attempt to destroy St. Patrick's seminary by fire, imperriling the lives of 140 students and faculty, has shocked the community, which feeling has been accentuated by the subsequent poisoning of two horses at the seminary. It is stated that there had been trouble a few weeks ago with some Italian laborers who had been employed on the grounds of the institution. Many agree that the attempted violence against the place is due to the outgrowth of this falling out. It is supposed that the vindictive nature of the foreigners has constructed a causus belli in the mater.

A MUSICAL SUCCESS, BUT A FINANCIAL FAILURE.

While the audience was not as large as the merits of the effort should have justified, the presentation of the operata "A Nautical Knot" at the Alhambra last Friday evening by the members of the Redwood City Choral Society was an artistic success. While the cast was not a long one and included but few of the members of the society in its prominent parts, those who participated gave evidence of careful training and painstaking endeavor as musical and artistic ability.

Mr. Ralph Dogde, who made his initial appearance before a local audience, gave abundant evidence of his ability to sustain a leading humorous character, both his singing and acting eliciting much favorable comment, while Mr. Ben Zimmerman, who appeared for the first time in public in a solo part was given instant and popular recognition.

Cast for the leading part, Miss Gertrude Beeger sang with her usual magnificent voice, fully justifying her selection, while the singing of Mrs. N. C. Cummings left nothing to be desired. No local musical production can be considered complete without the presence of Mr. Landschiet, and on this occasion he was at his best. Perhaps especially worthy of mention was the personification of a wandering artist by Eugene McAuliffe, a good piece of character work. Though cast at the bottom of the bill, much of the pleasure of the evening was contributed by the three Barnstopool girls, Miss Beth Burham, Mrs. Roy W. Cloud and Miss Kittie Crowe, always popular among our local singers, while Dr. Taggart and Wilbur Doxsee easily carried off a share of the honors.

Members of the Choral Society have frequently contributed to the pleasure of the local public and have ever stood ready to assist every deserving cause and it is to be regretted that their efforts on this occasion did not meet with a more popular recognition. It is to be hoped that some means will be found to recoup the financial loss and that the members of the society will not allow themselves to become discouraged.

THE RALSTON HILLS

The hills, the hills, those Ralston hills,
Those oak fringed hills and contoured hills,
Green rolling hills to westward.
With sheltered cove and waterhole,
'Twixt gentle slope and bladed knoll,
My heart is yearning westward.

The Gilbert highlands on the north,
By nature's wondrous planning,
Provide a shelter from the breeze,
The mountain crest oft' fanning.

Old Bogess nestling in the east,
To anglers doubtless dearer,
But in the west the heart's at rest,
In old Corte Madera.

Those winding trails around the hills,
Where kine and sheep oft' wander,
Mid' sagebrush dotted here and there
And greasewood over yonder.

Old Buckeye Gulch, where game birds nest,
And cirelig hawks will hover,
Those moss lined limbs of buckeye trees
Where rabbits run to cover.

Where tan oaks of a sturdy growth
To fir trees show no quarter,
And towering redwoods shelter give,
To madrones near the water.

Oh! Ralston Hills, you may not care
For glorious sunsets, rich and rare,
Yet from your slopes at eve I've seen,
The artit's true Empyrean.

WATERFRONT TO BE OCCUPIED BY BIG BUSINESS CONCERNS

Quietly pursuing the even tenor of their way and apparently making no effort to attract attention, the public spirited men who have undertaken the work of developing the splendid waterfront facilities of Redwood City are evidently losing no time in pushing their enterprise to fruition, and unless all signs fail several extensive business enterprises will be in operation here before the end of the year. Among those who have taken active part in the work of this development is Mayor Merrill, and under his guidance a party composed of George Rolph, brother of Mayor Rolph, W. J. Hotchkiss and M. Brown, all men prominent in business circles of San Francisco, went over the district last Saturday and were given an opportunity to investigate its possibilities. All expressed themselves as much impressed with the natural facilities offered.

While details are not yet obtainable, it has been announced with certainty that before the end of the coming summer not less than three extensive business enterprises, having widely established business connections, will be located on the waterfront. Among these will be two concerns extensively engaging in the lumber business, both of which will establish extensive yards and make this city their distributing point for the entire central and southern portions of the state.

Tree Doctors at Work.

Oaks and other trees on some of the largest estates on the peninsula are being treated for various arboreal affections and a small army of tree doctors and surgeons, with their assistants, has been engaged to operate on sick trees throughout the district from William H. Crocker's place in Hillsborough to Fred Sharon's estate at Mnlo Park.

Less than three years ago scientific preservation was introduced in San Mateo county aud in Pasadena by Allison T. Fench, Gilbert H. Bishop and H. Ashley Ely, who have practically done all of that type of work executed on the peninsula.

Under the direction of this trio hundreds of trees have been successfully treated this year. The importance of saving trees from fungus growths is insisted upon.

Tree surgery consists of cutting off useless limbs, treating diseased parts of trees, removing decayed wood and filling the cavaties with cement.

The cost of treating a tree is sometimes nominal. Then again $400 has been the cost of saving a single tree.

That experts only can ply the tree-surgery craft is exemplified by the fact that graduates of no less than twenty-seven universities are now preserving tres in San Mateo county.

The work is hazardous, but while many accidents have occurrred on the peninsula, there have been no fatalties. Last year three trre surgeons met death while at work in the east.

It is necessary to brace trees where the fungus growth has nearly extinguished life with a reinforcement of steel. The bark of the trees is also painted to keep up the scenic effect. On single large trees four men have been kept busy for fully seven weeks.

PARK COMMISSION READY FOR WORK

New Board Elects Officers and Outlines Plans for First Season's Work.

The long cherished desire of Mayor Merrill for systematic tree planting as a means of adding to the attraction of the streets and parks of this city were given definite form on Wednesday evening withthe formal organization of the recently appointed Park Commission. Acting under authority given at a recent meeting of the city council, Mayor Merrill has appointed as members of the Park Commission Mrs. Arion Kalenborn, Mrs. Albert Mansfield, Chase Littlejohn, George A. Deleau nad City Engineer A. W. Pioda. All of these were present at the meeting in the office of the City Engineer with the exception of Mr. Deleau, who informed the other members that, though unable to attend this meeting, he was in sympathy with the work and was ready to lend ever assistance in his power.

Mayor Merrill was present at the meeting and at some length outlined the reasons for the creation of the Commission and the scope of the work which it was desired it should undertake, calling attention to the multiplicity of the duties devolving upon the trustees in the transaction of ordinary public business and the need of systematic attention to this important department by a body of unhampered with other public duties

In suggesting plans for the work Mr. Merrill urged that attention be given to the improvement of the numerous public parks as well as to the adornment of the streets.

Among other suggestions offered was one for the creation of an artistic civic center in the improvement of Center street and the grounds of the new city hall.This it was urged would in the near future become the attractive center of the city and with the selection of artistic trees and shrubbery might easily become one of the turist attractions of the peninsula. The members of the Commission were assured of the hearty support of the trustees in any plans that might be made and such reasonable financial assistance as may be necessary in the prosecution of the work.

Following this introduction the members of the Commission lost no time in getting down to business in hand. Permanent organization was secured by the election of Mrs Kalenborn as chairman and A. W. Pioda as secretary-treasurer. Most of the time of the meeting was devoted to plans for immediate action, it apparenrtly being reconnized that the season was too far advanced to permit of delay in any work to be done for the present year. As means of information the members of the present situation, City Engineer submitted a map prepared by him for the purpose of showing the location and character of trees now growing upon the principal thoroughfares of the city. After a full discussion of this it was decided that first attention should be given to plans for the planting of trees on Stafford and Arguello streets, Mayor Merrill promising to make an endeavor to secure the cooperation of the Southern Pacific in the adornment of their right of way in that locality. Plans were also smade for a systematic visitation of housholders in other sections with a view to securing their cooperation. The plan generally agreed upon for the prosecution of the work was that the owner of the property should pay the cost of the trees and the work of planting, which as a rule would not exceed $1 for each tree, while the expense of watering and caring for the young trees should be borne by the city. As the commission has no funds at its disposal this seemed to be the only feasible method of proceedure.

Secretary Pioda was instructed to communicate with the various improvement organizations of the city urging their cooperation. Representatives of these organizations as well as the interested public will be made welcome atany meetings of the Commision which will be held at the new city hall as soon as that building is ready for occupancy, which will be soon after the first of next month.

Ready For Probate.

William H. Reed has applied in the Superior Court for letters of administration, with the will annexed, upon the estate of James Reed, who died at Pescadero on October 18th, 1910. The estate cansists of a ranch near Pescadero valued at $40,000, and personad property consisting of cash, household furniture, railroad stock and promissory notes valued at $15,000. The estate was about to be distributed when a will, executed by James Reed in July, 21, 1883, was discovered and it was filed for probate on Wednesday. By the terms of the instrument the entire estate is bequeathed to Elizabeth Reed, wife of the tstator, and she is named as executor to serve without bonds. Mrs. Reed died some time prior to her husband and as they left no children, William H. Reed, a nephew of James Reed, at once filed a petition for letters of administrator and was appointed administrator and had about wound up the affairs of the estate when, as stated above, a will was discovered. The will is witnessed by William H. Bias and Arthur D. Chace of Santa Cruz. The sisters of Mrs. Reed some time ago filed a contest, asking for half the property as their share of their sister's estate. The discovery of the instrument will further complicate affairs and it no doubt will be some time before the heirs secure possession of the property. There was a rumor in town yesterday to the effect that all the heirs had agreed on a compromise and if this be so the property will be distributed in ten months.

Instruction and Amusement

Under its present management the Bell Theatre is a place of which the people of Redwood City may well be proud. Not only does it furnish a place where pleasant entertainment may be secured for a very small price, but many of the pictures shown are a source of profitable instruction to both old and young. Especially will this be the case during the coming week, when Manager Natthorst will have some special attractions for each of the four changes of program.
